well, provided he is sincere in the warfare he is waging. But is it not a curious combination—this justification of a great crime in January and the condemnation of the same crime in July or August?

A day or two since Mr. Douglas made a speech in Northoly Virginia, having tracked his maternal progenitor down to that sunny laiting. In reply to a question put by one of the local newspapers concerning the secesof the local newspapers concerning the secession of the Southern States in the event of Mr.
Lincoln's election, be in reported to have

A few months ago he said substantially, that unless the Southern States were provided with a Sedition Law they would "demand that that is, to send the army and navy among them with orders to but down the traitors at the cancer's mouth! Is this very proper but very inconsistent advice he has again copied from its. Liscoin, who said in his Leavenworth apach; "You (the South) have just now home John Brown for tension against the State of Virginia. Is soold grait him me that he thought he was doing right.

the truth, nor could there be a greater per-version of the history of the case than that attempted by Mr. Druglas.

In the first place, the Republicans have al-ways held that the people of a Territory, when they come to organise a State Governmen have the right to frame their own Constitution and that the only restraint upon their action is that clause of the Federal Constitution made to unite some of the South American immorrs with the Anti-Lecompton Democrate and the Republicans The Crittenden-Montgomery bill was accepted as such a compromise. The Republicans, as said above, secrificed no presciple in voting for it, and they knew also that, if it passed the House, it sould not possibly pass the Senate, and if it should ever pass both Houses, they knew the people of Kansas would vote it down. But such a combination would defeat the Lacompton bill in the House, and that was the great object which the Republi-Kaosas, abhorrent to mine-tenths of the the population of that Territory. Their action How the arrangement entered into by the Republicana to secure this and, was lived up to by the other parties, and in what light Mr. Douglas regarded the action of the former, at the time, will be seen by the following extraor from a speech of Sanator, Wilson, delivered at Bangor, Mo., a few days ago:

The Court Assertions, trans to their plighted

When Mr. Douglas returned to Washington in the winter of '85, I said to him in ambatance that we had ought together the Lecompton hattle; that we had often held consultations in regard to that matter; and that I felt bound in honor to hold sacred what the presence. He said that 'Lincoln pressed him so hard he had to take that growing him very hard now, I suppose he is again making the charge to save himself."

We submit that the course of Mr. Douglas,

We submit that the course of Mr. Douglas, viewed in the light of these acts, reflects but little credit upon his hoper or his truthfulness. Republicans have nothing to fear from the fullest investigation of all their votes in Congress, or their action outside of Congress, relative to Kansas. They have been true to the great principle of their organization from the beginning. Resisting all attempts to plant shavery in Kansas, they have labored to that end with the same seal, when shey had the temporary, cooperation of Douglas, that inspired their actions when the pro-lavery forces were led on by him to bettle. ibirty test more, and put on two more storms, making it a five story store.

About this time Stewart adopted the plan of employing, as clerks, the handsomest young fellows he could pick up in this country or even in England. His customers were the most dashing and fashionable young women in the city and from the South. He bired handsome Boyle (atterwards Boyle & Humphries) and Durham. They were great fellows among the women in 1838 and 1838, and drew crowds to Stewart's aircady fashionable store.

In 1831, Mr. Burroughs was book-keeper. Business Cards. Stewart's aircady fashionable store.

In 1881, Mr. Burroughs was book-keeper.
Stewart took him in as partner, and gave him one-sighth in 1883. He died last year, and his share was just one million of dollars.

In the year 1888, when all was gloom and confusion in the commercial world, Stewart reduced his stock to cost, and sold for those prices. Ginchams and such stuff, that had Apt Solicitors in Chancer om No. 11, Dickey's Building, corner Lake and I BLACKWELL & MATHIEU, A & S. No. 48 South Clark prices. Ginghams and such stuffs, that had been retailing for 81 cents per yard, he sold at 92 cents, calicose in the same proportion. What was the consequence? Old women who had stockinged their gold and silver, marched to Stewart's to take advantage of the awful sacrifice that unfortunate merchant was making, and and though they did not want the goods, yet, like Mrs. Toodles, they might "want 'em one of these days," when they could not be had at auch unheard of low prices. Stewart was over-run with cash. He took the same money received for goods sold at cost, went, into the market, and bought the same style of goods, calicose, ste, that he had sold, for 40 per cent. less than he had obtained! In one purchase he 1,000,000. He paid Pairoon Van Rennaelser $540,000 for e Metropolitan Hotel and out-buildings. It now worth and pays an interest of ten per nt on $1000,000, and would bring at saction Wm. B. Astor. But Mr. Astor's income is not so large as Stawart's.

Mr. Slewart lives plainly, and is very simple in his habits. He never splurges, and cares mothing for fashionably society, or for any but the set habit has flung him among. He now and then gives a great dinner marty. His guests are found among the substantial commercial men of his acquaintance. At Stewart's dinner the service is of solid gold. He can and does entertain splendidly.

It is mealess to speculate in regard to the dispessal of this was properly, when the present posal of this wast property, when he present owner passes from among us. Mr. Siswart is only sixty-four. Girard lived to be sinely-two, and Astor was ninely. Mr. Siswart is more likely to fire to be one hun-dred, than either Girard or Astor at sixty-four were likely to live to unety. dred, then either Girard or Anter at airty-bur-were likely to live to unterly.

In 1828 Shewart was worth one million five hundred thousand dollars. He has averaged from that time to the present a business of four-millions a year for twenty-four years past. His profits have been fileen per ce-it—that is, six hundred thousand dollars a year, or fourteen million dollars. It is half share is seven mil-

Probably the most superadous success in a mercantile career, of an extraordinary length, has been that of A. T. Stewart, the present great wholesale and thy good dealer.

A. T. Stewart is a county man of O'Connell, Briss the Brave, Curran, the lake Dake of Wailington, Powers, the actor, Grattan, the Emmetia, and Teddy, the Tiler. Forty-one years ago he handed on the western side of the Atlantic Beath of an Eccentric Litigant.

The Providence Jeurnal reports that Edward Dexter, distinguished for sixty years for marked peculiarities, died at his residence in Seatonk on thursday morning, in the sinety-first year of his age. The Journal cays:

"The deceased continued to five with his mother—his father having pecished at sea in January, 1770—until he was sixteen years of age, during which time General Lafayette and other officers of the revolution were quarkered, at the homestead. He then entered the counting-room of Welcome Arnold—so prominent in his day both as a merchant and a citizen—where he remained until he had attained his majority. In 1791 he entered on commercial life for himself, and during the fifteen years following visited most of the principal ports in Europe and Asia. One of his ships was captured by the French, and he was the last survivor in this State of the original claimants upon that government for spoliations upon our commerce pravious to the rear 1800.

"But what gave Colond Dexter such prominence in the community was the possession of a will and a temper which we have sever known equalled in any other man, and which was continued in undiminished vigor down to the day of his death. That anger, passion and profasity which degrade and debase most men, in him always rese to a signity not office seen, and in their fullest manifestations of defant andacity almost to sublimity. He labored under the singular delusion that the world had, without cause, made was upon him. He was, therefore, nearly all his his a sustor in court, and after having been frequentily defeated in our State tribunals, made Massachusetts his residence, for the purpose of bringing his cases within the federal jurishettion. Towards this city he was especially embittered, and in his legal contests with it almost always successful, obtaining the same piece of meadow land."

The Mississippi Mericium learns that in the counties of Chockay, Clark, Washington and Wavne in that State, a serious excitement exists among the planters, similar to that in Texas, It appears that a discovery has lately been made that in one neighborhood a combination of abelitionists who beidly dely public opinion, has existed for some time. A party of men appointed by a public meeting BEWARE OF COUNTERPEITS party of men appointed by a public copinion, has existed for some time. A party of men appointed by a public meeting ut undertook to give them a call, but they armed themselves and offered resistance.

It is said that an old man named Gitbert, and a preacher named Kalbonald are the ringleaders. They are charged with having been in a preacher said and John Brown, of Harper's Ferry fame, and it is charged that a point near there and a man living there, were designated in eld John's confession.

It is expected that a demonstration sufficient to overpower them will be got up against these men in Mississippi soon, and that they will be driven from the litate, if not executed. One of the charges against these men in Mississippi is, that they were in the habit of assembling them for insurrection.

A Heatile Note to the Cobinet of Turin — Review of the Present Condition of Europe—A General War Anticipased.

[From the Paris Correspondent of N. Y. Tinen.]

Pann, Twelley, Aug. 14, 1826.

At a moment when Gariblad is seems ready to pounce upon Naples, new obtacles arise to prevent or at least to precratinate the event. The reply of the Dictator to the letter of Victor Emanuel, and the speech of the Pro-Distator, Depretia, to the Palermians, in which the intention to carry the war into Venezia is very clearly indicated, have served as a pretext for the Austrian Government to send a houtile note to the Cabinet of Turin. This attitude of the Austrian Government has produced a great excitement at Turin, and we now see these two Gevernments about its the same position of hostility as they were last year, two months before the crossing of the Toisip. Austria has collected 250,000 mm in Venetia, and is not only increasing the strength of her present colorest fortifications there, but is building a new one on the Mincie, at a point where Napoleon crossed last summer. In reply to these measures of Austria, Fredmont has called nater arms her conscripts of 1856 and 1859 entire; and now Austria tolames anything that may be heatile is her attitude to this movement of Pictimoni. Thus we are going through the old quarrel of 1859 again—the sum series of criminations and commenced the quarrel.

The valie of Maria Sprin, member of the Pictimoni. tionary paris at Naples, were all the result of this newstitione of austria.

It is well understood that Napoleon will not assist Piedmont in any war against Austria in which the latter act only in the defensire, and the question, therefore, for Piedmont to consider is, whether, with she addition of Sieily, Naples, and the Roman States, either than Rome, she will be able in a war with Austria to disponse with the sid of France. France thinks she same, and so advises Piedmont. The experience of Garibald with his Sieilian recruits supports this view of the case, and although a year of liberty and of organization may west wonders on the people of Southern Italy, as it has already done on those of Lombardy, it is more than donitful whether the new Italian Empire could withstand the army of Austria if the contest should commerce at ones. An immense moral force would be given to such a constant if it were extain that Rome was to be the future capital of the new Kingdom;

We knew that we are not able to do justice to the departed by our feeble remarks. We have the very entiled to reine the retraction of the departed, try to feel more than we are able to utter.

Let us then, in commemoration of the departed, try to follow his noble precepts, to imitate his secret virtues. For in the exercise of such actions, each and every one of us will, as it were, creek a lasting monument to his measury in our own bosoms. Let us, like him, try to strive after that which is soble and generous. Let us find in the actions of others always, the brighter, the better aids. Let us find our greatest happiness in the promotion of the will refer to others. It short, let us like him, each and every one of us, try to de our duty.
